WEDNESDAY, SEPT 26, 1855.

The editor of the Courier commences a very long and very violent article in his paper of yesterday by request ng his readers to remember "how rudely and harshly" the controversy between him and us as to the course of our respective papers was provoked by us. We will cite from our columns all that we said in the way of "rude and harsh" provocation; and the reader can judge of it:

We may add that the Loniuville Conrier, whenever there has been an issue between the slavery and the anti-slavery parties, has taken particalously with the anti-slavery men, &c.

The remark was intended to apply only to the questions between the slavery and anti-slavery men in this State, and it was in no degree rude and harsh but undemably true.

A few words as to the passage, "all men are entitled to liberty, no matter what color," which the Courier professed to quote from an old number of the Journal. The editor of the Courier said that this passage and its other quotations were taken from a single number of the Journal. This was untrue. He said that they were taken from the Journal of Oct. 23, 1848. This was untrue; not one of them was taken from that paper. He profe-ses to give the exact words of the passage as to all men's being entitled to liberty. The profession was untrue, for he omitted a word in one place and supp ied a word in another. He made the quotation, so called, in such a way as to represent that it was an entire sentence taken from the Journal. The representation was untrue, for his quotation, so far as it was one, was dug right out of the middle of a sentence, both the beginning and the end of the sentence being chopped off. He used the phrase so as to make his readers think that The editor says we speak of the Northern K. the object of it was to assert the right of slaves N.'s as sound upon the slavery question. We to freedom. This was false, for no man could read the article or even the paragraph in which until he was turned out of the American Order. the misquoted phrase appeared in the Journal without seeing that the whole point and scope and object was to refute the doctrines of O'Connell and other European abolitionists and to esblish the great principle that men in a state of what the constitutions and the laws give them. If the Journal had said in 1845 "It is absurd and mischievous to contend that slaves are entitled to their liberty," and if the editor of the "slaves are entitled to their liberty" and published it as a sentiment of the Journal, he would ly or unwittingly. Having disposed of this point, we quote an extract from the Courier of yesterday, involving a charge of fraud against us:

scarcely have been guilty of a greater outrage than that which he actually perpetrated witting-

In June last, the Louisville Times charged Col. Ma shall with having written abolition articles for the Journal. On the 2d of June the Journal, after referring 'o this charge, said:

As an act of strict justice to Col. Marshall, we feel it to be our duty to refute this assertion by the following extract from the only article in the Louisville Journal to which the Times can by any possibility be supposed to refer.

The italics are the Journal's. Then followed an extract from the article of August 21, 1845. The date of the article, however, was not stated. The editor evidently designed fo produce the impression (without positively asserting) that Col. Marshall had never written anything for the Journal of a mere objectionable character than that extract. In a few days, no exposure of the fraud having been made, the editor, as usual, became bold and reckless, and in the Journal of the 9th of June said:

Col. M. wrote but a por inn of one article on the subject [of the expalsion of C. M. Clay's paper from Lexington], and we expublished in our paper the material part of that one.

What, now, must be the astonishment of lished an extract containing no passage which right he has to brand as "infamous Abolition- paper not only continued up to the time of the RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS. passages which nearly all Southern men consider objectionable, and then assured his readers that he had republished the material part of the

A very few words will brush this aside. The Times, in the June article referred to by the Courier, did not, as the Courier falsely asserts, "charge Col. Marshall with having written abolition articles for the Journal;" this was not the charge at all. The only sentence in which the Times alluded to Col. Marshall's having written for the Journal was this:

He was a regular contributor to that incendiary sheet [Cassins M Clay's paper in Lexington] and when the citizens of Lexington, exasperated by the Jacobin principles which it primaligated, and alsomed for the safety of themselves and their families, expelled it from their midst, Cassius M. Clay and his paper were zadously differed through the culumns of the Lower than the Cassius of the Lower than the Cassius of the Lower than the Lower

This, we repeat, was the only sentence in which the article of the Times alluded to Col. Marshall in connection with the Journal; and the whole charge, as the reader will see, was that Col. Marshall had zealously defended in our columns Cassius M. Clay and his paper. It was the only portion of the article that demanded a reply from us, and we replied to it by republishing a portion of our article of the 21st of August, 1845, which was the only article the Times could possibly have reference to-the portion in which Cassius M. Clay and his paper were spoken of-spoken of to be strongly reprehended and condemned. A few days afterwards, the Times having reiterated its assertion or intimation that Col. Marshall had written in the Journal in favor of Cassius M. Clay and but a portion of one article upon the subject of the expulsion of Mr. C. M. Clay's paper from Lexington, and that we had republished in our paper the material part of that one. Well, this was strictly the truth and the whole truth both in spirit and in letter. We had republished the only part of the article that was material to the point at issue—the only part to which the charge we were replying to could have any possible application-the only part affecting in any degree the subject-matter which we were dis cussing or which we were called on to discuss. Having republished all that was in the slightest degree material to the truth or falsity of the accusation against Col. Marshall's contributions to the Journal, what conceivable reason was there for our republishing other parts having nothing whatever to do with the sole matter in discussion? What human being, whose heart and brains are not influenced by passion, will say that we were guilty of fraud in this?

The editor of the Courier speaking of what he calls our inconsistency, says:

Three years ago he [the editor of the Journal] deemed the exclusion of the Catholics from otfice in New Hampshire a monstrous outrage, intolerable tyranny; now he pretends to believe that the Catholics should be excluded from ofnce throughout the United States.

We have repeatedly shown our perfect consistency upon this subject, and the only reply the editor of the Courier deserves is the mere mention of the fact that he took just the same ground we did in 1852 as to the New Hampshire constitution, and, that he went into a Know Nothing Lodge last Spring, and, if the received opinion as to the Rituals is true, took a solemn oath before God and man not to support a Roman Catholic for any office or to tolerate a Roman Catholic in any office.

There are many things in the Courier's article to which we shall not stop to reply, for we have replied to them a score of times when presented by the Louisville Democrat far ask whether he ever pronounced them unsound We have not said that all who call themselves Know Nothings at the North are sound as to slavery, but we have said, and we do say, that there is at the North a firm, resolute, strong, and rapidly-growing party, consisting of memvety can have no rights and franchises except bers of the American Order, true to the patriotic obligations of what has been published as the Ritual of the Third Degree, and resolved on discountenancing by every means in their power the mischievous slavery agitation; and we may Courier had quoted from this sentence the words add that the party is far stronger at the North now than it was when the editor of the Courier, rejoicing in his Know Nothing position, could find no occasion to denounce the Northern Know Nothings for a want of nationality but exulted in their triumphs and grieved at their reverses.

But we have something more to say as to our article of the 21st of August, 1845. The editor of the Courier, be it carefully remembered, denounces that article as "infamous Abolitionism" and professes himself unable to understand how the author of it can hold up his head in the community. He quotes and republishes in large capitals what he considers its Abolition sentiments, the sentiments which excite his horror, and which he thinks should excite the horror of the whole South; and they are simply that we hoped ten years ago to live to see the light of a day when Kentucky would be a free State; that many of the best minds in Kentucky were engaged upon the subject of emancipation and would express freely their opinions upon it; and that the discussion would certainly go on in spite of all obstacles. Omitting at present any especial reference to the fact, that, after taking time to examine all those who are not familiar with the tactics of the Journal, upon learning that the extract which the editor republished and represented as the material part of the article of August 21st, 1845, contained none of the passages which we have quoted above! These passages which we have quoted above! These passages which editor eviscerated the article, and pub-discussion of the slavery question would go on and the expression of a hope that Kentucky might ultimately be a free State. Let us see what he himself was in the daily habit of say-1849, when, in anticipation of the election of delegates to the constitutional convention, the practical question of emancipation was directly before the people of Kentucky. Here is what he said on the 5th of February, 1849:

he said on the 5th of February, 1849:

Emancipation in Kentucky is neither dead, nor is it likely to die. * * * In every encounter with the dark and gloomy error that is endeavoring to overshadow it, 't will renew its streng h and go forth to battle with new vizor. You might as well attempt to chain the winds or to allay the surges of the ocean by lexislative desire as to a tempt to chain down he froe thoughts of the people of Kentucky. * * Emancipation is me. dead in Kentucky, nor is it likely to die. Sach principles as it has never die, nor can they be killed. Nor do its esemites believe for a moment that it is doad. If there believed so, they would not fear to submit the question to the people of themselves for a direct decision. We dare the enemies of emancipation to put the question to the people. They produce that they may vote on that question had need in alone. They have better than to rrust themselves to the voice of the people. They prefer braggartism, noise, confinion, and proclamation of the death of what they dare not meet in an can encounter. This is their wisdom and prhaps their hest polecy. We prefer, as Mr. Guthrie did, in his greet speech, in answer to Robert Wickliffe, Esq., emancipation to making ken ucky a frentier slave State to fight the battles of the South. The spirit of renavation is alive and in vigor, and most go forward in it to onward merch. We are decidedly in favor of emancipating Kentucky from the incubnit that has weighed her down for many year-, and from the awful dangers that thresten her more extendly never the cytis when Mr. Guthrie so clearly and trinmphantly pointed them one, &c.

Fellow-citizens, the editor who wrote and

Fellow-citizens, the editor who wrote and published such stuff as this in 1849, when the subject of practical emancipation was directly before the people, is he who proclaims now that we were guilty of "infamous abolitionism" because we said in '45 that the discussion of the slavery question would go on, and, his paper, we stated that Col. M. had written that we hoped to live to see the light of a day when Kentucky would be a free Stati?

But let us continue our quotations without stopping to comment upon each. The following is from the Courier of Feb. 6, 1849:

Upon the great question of the perpetuation of slavery by a constitutional prevision or for gradual emancipation, there can be and should be no mistake as to the sentiment of Kentucky. All attempts to induce discussion, to choke off free inquiry, or to paralyse public sentiment, will recoil on the heads of those whomake the attempt. The people of Kentucky know their rights and will maintain them. * * * Let not the friends of slavery imagine for a moment that they can strangle discussion—the game is up and will be pursued. The following is from the Courier of Feb. 9,

Of the present benefit of emancipation to the people of Kentucky, a long series of observation has satisfied us, &c.

The following is from the Courier of Feb. 19,

Let each man who loves Kentneky and who wishes to scenar prosperity to the next generation of Kentuckiaus, be firm courageous, energetic, and prudent, and all will be well. Even if all that is desired cannot be done, emancipation may partit-self in a position to hold the balance of power, &c. The following is from the Courier of Feb.

We sincerely believe that the best interests of Kentneky are involved in the principle of emancipation, and we are surthers are thousands in Kentneky who believe the same greatruth. We say to one and sill of them—stand to your guna and do your duty to the old Commonwealth. The following is from the Courier of Feb. 23,

What we contend for is that emancipation will confer imperishable benefits upon the white race in Kentnoky. Slavery is an incubes npon the public prosperity, an injury to the young of the white race, a dead weight npon enterprise, a barrier to the density of population, and is at war with the soil. In all those races after prosperity and greatness, the slave States have been effectually drugged, and, like the Irishman's horse Botherum, have driven everything before them. When the slave States have a dense population, alavery will cease. We think it likely, bn' if that is the contingent for the cessation of slavery, it will be perpetual.

There is something in the public heart that derives its motion from canses far beyond anything touched by Whigor Democrat. In the day of trial this will throb in tones that will astound these who have been trying to crush free inquiry in Kentucky, &c.

The following is from the Courier of March 5,

Gild slavery as you will, drown the breathings of conscience as yon may, the voice of nature, of reason, of religion and justice, will speak out. Whatever plausible reasons we may arrein favor of the "mild servitinde," of "kindness in sickness," and "care in old age," there are eternal truths that will hurst through all the prejudices and wrong-imaginings of interest. In any view we may take of the subject, these in tters will cross the vision in looking at the slavery of the African race. l'eople of Kenincky, awake to your irue glory, your present peace, aud the welfare of your future generations.

The following is from the Courier of March review of the contributions to the exhibition. 12, 1849:

We hear much of the injustice, to slaveholders, of emanci-pation, yethere is a body of gentlemen who own according to the books of the commissioners, over five handred slaves, join-ing in a noble, glorious, and manly effort to remove the location of slavery from the soil of Kentneky. Success to their ef-fects.

The following is from the Courier of March 24, 1849:

We rejoice to see the emancipationists of Kentucky quietly and calmly paraning the even tenor of their way under the farm persuasion that the raiows are vital traths that cannot be honestly aban qued,    The new Constitution will fall if it attempts to perpetualize slavery in Kentucky.

The following is from the Courier of March election of delegates to the constitutional convention its fierce and insane denunciations of African slavery and its violent tirades in favor of the immediate adoption of emancipation measures, but grew more and more excited upon ing four years afterwards, so late indeed as the subject from day to day and from week to week, as we shall show if necessary. There is not now in all the North an anti-slavery paper that rails more vehemently against slavery than the Louisville Courier did, or that is more demented as to emancipation than it was. Its sentiments, its utterances, are before the public. And now (oh shame to human nature!) the editor who put forth these sentiments, who staked his political fortunes and affected a willingness to stake his life upon them, who struggled for emancipation as he never struggled for any other cause under heaven, has the Satanic audacity to allege that it was "infamous abolitionism" in 1845 to say that some of the best minds in the State were engaged upon the slavery question and that the discussion would go on-that it was "infamous abolitionism" in 1845 to express a hope of living to see the light of a day when Kentucky should be a free State! We wonder if he himself, in 1849, while fighting furiously for emancipation, thought it "infamous abolitionism" to have said in 1845 that the discussion would go on; we wonder if he in 1849, while portraying the gloom of Kentucky as a slave State and her prospective prosperity and glory as a free State, thought it "infamous abolitionism" to have expressed in 1845 the hope of living to see the light of a day when Kentucky should be free! We ask whether he, while devoting his soul so intemperately to the expulsion of slavery from Kentucky, did not wish to live to "see the light of a day" when his favorite policy should be consummated-or whether he hoped to die, on the eve of its consummation, like Moses upon Mt. Pisgah in sight of the Promised Land. Our readers all know how zealously we battled against emancipation throughout the threatening period when the Courier battled so deliriously for it; and is it not, under all the circumstances, the very height and depth and length and breadth of naked infatuation, stark lunacy, for the editor of the Courier to contend that any expressions in our article of '45 were "infamous abolitionism" and that the utterer should be ashamed to hold up his head in this community? Does not every body see that the editor, just to indulge in the gratification of spirting a mouthful of horrible filth at us, has leaped into a cess-pool up to his THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE-OPENING OF

THE EXHIBITION .- A vast audience was assembled last evening in the Hali of the Mechanics' Institute, in attendance upon the opening ceremony. In spite of the shower, hundreds of our fairest maidens and noble matrons graced the assemblage. Few speakers have made their debut in cratory before so large and intelligent an auditory as Mr. Ford did last night. We understand that it is his first effort at public declamation. As a writer he had already established for himself a high reputation. His effort last night promises equal excellence as a speaker. The address elicited many admiring comments.

The articles for exhibition will all be com pletely arranged by to-night, and the hall will be found a most agreeable and interesting resort. We have no doubt our citizens, one and all, will not fail to be on hand to see the curiosities of art and to enjoy a delightful promenade.

It is our intention to commence to-morrow a

James E. Hollis, of this county, near Harrod's creek, presented us yesterday with two apples. They are of very large size - 141 inches in circumference, and called "Hawley Dowes." Mr. H has four trees of them and intends to exhibit one barrel at the Agricultural | treasurer of the company.

We have also received from J. & S. Wray, 14 inches in circumference.

The Mississippi was still falling at St. Louis on Monday.

The following river items we take from our New Orleans exchanges of the 19th:

Snagged .- The steamboat Oceana, from St. Louis, arrived yesterday, reports that on the 17th inrt., about I o'clock A. M, when near the Hole in the Wall, a snag penetrated the lar-board guard, forward of the wheelhouse, carboard guard, forward or the wheelhouse, carrying away twenty-five guard beams, and lost overboard the boat's barge, ice chest, five head of cattle, and a lot of tools out of the blacksmith shop. The boat received no other dam-

The steamer Al'da, reported by us this morning as likely to sink, we are glad to find is not yet gone, and means will be used to-day to pull her off and keep her affoat.

We learn from the officers of the steamer Red River, which arrived yesterday from Na-poleon, that on Thursday last a fatal affray occurred on board the steamer Judah Touro, then lying at Napoleon, between Donahue the steward, and Steele, the cook, in which the latter was stabbed and died in less than half an hour

The splendid steamer Northerner is the packet for St. Louis to-day. Capt. T. M. Erwin has assumed the command of her, and Mr. Wm. l'aylor has charge of the office. These are excellent selections. Capt. Reed, who has commanded the Northerner since the retirement of Capt. Fuller, will again take charge of the Fashion, which is now receiving an entire new outfit, and Messrs. J. W. Clark and F. Smith will be the clerks of the F. We believe that she is to take the place of the Northerner on Wednesday next, and the latter will be laid up for repairs.

The Ben Franklin .- This elegant steamer is advertised to leave for New Orleans this evening. The Ben has spacious and elegantly furnished cabins, and passengers will have all comforts and meet with every attention on her.

The Wm. Garvin .- This packet is, we are glad to learn, getting on swimmingly in the Henderson trade. Capt. Sullivan and Messrs. Shields and Heath are winning golden opinions. They request us to say that in their business and in the management of the Garvin no political matters are introduced. Every gentleman, be he a Know-Nothing or a Sag-Nicht, if he conducts himself properly, will be treated with courtesy and attention. The Garvin leaves this evening.

The new steamer Carrier has been unavoidably detained. She leaves for St. Louis this morning.

The steamers Lebanon and James Park were ue from St. Louis last night and the Caledonia is due from that port to-day.

At Cincinnati yesterday there were the J. C. Fremont, Prairie Rose, Jefferson, St. Clair, Swallow, and Bay City, for St. Louis; Ben Coursin and Magnolia, for Nashville; and Ohio for New Orleans.

Tobacco.-The Connecticut Seed-Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company held their third anof Ooion county, Tenn., a pear which measures | nual sale at Hartford on the 18th. It was well attended, and 300 cases, about one-half the lot in store, was sold at satisfactory prices. The old leaf, of the crops of 1852 and 1853, brought from 7 to 15 cents a pound; new leaf of the crop of 1854 from 11 to 181 cents.

Sailing of Steamships - The steamship Arago, and the Ariel, Vanderbilt's opposition steamer, both sailed at noon to-day for Southampton and Havre. Each will probably arrive at its destination as soon as practicable, if not sooner, and one of them the soonest. The Arago took out $863,506 in specie on freight and 123 passengers, including Hon. Robert McLaine and the Ravel Family. The Ariel had $8,308 in specie and 46 passengers.—N. Y. Jour. Com., 22d.

Hemp Crop .- The hemp crop in this vicinity will not be an average, in consequence of the drouth which pervaded this section during the early part of the season. The crop in the Platte Purchase is, perhaps, one-third short of that of last year, but has not proven, as many supposed would be the case, a failure. We know of many farmers la this vicinity who will have more than an average yield.

Yellow Fever at Canton .- A friend has shown Yellow Fever at Canton.—A friend has shown us a telegraphic dispatch from Canton, bearing date the 18th inst., which gives the following appalling account of the ravages of the epidemic in that small town. The present population of the town is less than 388. The total cases of yellow fever that have occurred are 107. Deaths 29. The present number of sick and convalescent is 79. The new cases for the last 24 hours are 13. Canton is a very pleasant town in Mississippi, situated in a healthy region of country, and on the extension line of the New Orleans, Jackson, and Great Northern Railroad.—N. O. Bulletin, Sept. 19.

Father Gavazzi writes to the Crusader that, owing to the new state of things in Italy, he will not be able to visit the United States, as contemplated.— N. Y. Times.

LEXINGTON & BIG SANDY RAILROAD .- The Common Council at the last meeting passed an ordinance to subscribe two hundred thousand dollars to the stock of this road, and we believe the subject comes up before the Board of Aldermen at their next meeting.

We do not very well see how there can be opposition to this ordinance, except that it will require a very small amount of taxes to be raised. Such an objection as this vanishes forever in an instant when we look at the objects to be attained. It is very well known here that the trade of the country east of Lexington now centres in Cincinnati because the facilities for reaching that city are greater than those for reaching Louisville. It is equally well known that Clark, Montgomery, and Bath counties are amongst the richest agricultural counties in the State, and that the mountain counties east and southeast of them are rich in minerals, and they also raise much valuable stock. Nearly one-fourth of the State will be dependent on the Big Sandy Railroad for its local business.

By this road that business will very soon be thrown to Louisville, and we shall very soon feel its beneficial effects.

By the proposed subscription we shall obtain this business, and the terms are such that most of the trade will be received before a dollar has to be paid by the city.

The conditions on which the subscription is

1st. That no part of it shall be paid till the road shall be completed and the cars running from Lexington to Mount Sterling, thirty-three miles.

2d. That the guage shall be the same as the Lexington and Louisville roads.

3d. That the subscription shall be expended on completing the road from Mount Sterling,

4th. That the bonds of the city shall be taken in payment of the subscription.

This road will be one link in the great thoroughfare from the southwest to the Atlantic seaboard, and may be considered in fact but a continuation of the road from this city to Lexington. At the mouth of Big Sandy it connects with the Virginia railroad leading to Norfolk by one branch, to Richmond by anoth-r, and to Baltimore, through Washington City, by a third. The two latter branches are already completed for near one hundred and fifty miles, and the work is progressing on the main stem at this end of the line. At this city this thoroughfare will meet the Nashville road with its branch to Memphis, making this city the great central point of the leading thoroughfares, east and west and southwest.

The considerations are so numerous and so overwhelming to induce the city to make the subscription that we cannot for a moment suppose the Board of Aldermen will hesitate to pass the ordinance, especially as it has to be submitted to the people to pass on it. The people have the right to be heard, and the opportunity should be afforded them to be heard at the ballot-box. We understand the most extensive owners of real estate in the city are in favor of this subscription, and we know the commercial and manufacturing community must be for it.

About one half of all the manufacturing machinery in Rhode Island has been stopped on account of the drought. Upon both branches of the Pawtucket river there is about 162,000 cotton spindles, more than 100,000 of which are entirely stopped. Upon the Blackstone it is not so dry, but at least one-half of the machinery in the mills is lying idle.

AN AMERICAN IN SEBASTOPOL .- The Nashville (Tenn.) Gazette publishes a letter from Sebastopol, written by Dr. J. H. Morton, of Williamson county, who is prosecuting his profession in the service of the Czar in Sebastopol. We make some interes ing extracts from the letter, which was written between the 4th and 8th of July:

I believe there is at least half as many killed in the city while off duty as there is at the bas-tions at the present time. During the time that they are attempting to destroy a battery of course more are killed at the bastions. All the fighting, save that which is done during an assault or sortie, is done from behind the bastions. You know something of the construction of a bastion, I suppose. It is nothing more than an embankment of dirt, with places cut through for cannon. The French have the same as we do, in this particular we have no advantage over them; and then they have a decided advantage of us in their artillery, which will carry much further than ours; we have excellent artillery though, but it is very heavy. Another thing they have that does a great deal of execution—the Mume rifle. You have heard it spo-ken of in high terms, but its value as an instrument of war has never been spoken of in terms

We lose a great many men from them, and these French know so well how to take advantage of every little rise in the ground to make a rifle pit; four or five of them get in here, and one shoots while the others load for him, and they do a vast deal of execution to our artillerymen These pits are thick all round the city, and you may shoot at them with a cannon, but with lit-tle effect, for as soon as he fires his rifle dirs down in his hole, and you see nothing more until you hear the crack of his rifle again, and they are pretty sure to get a man, and the balls, which are conical and very heavy for a gun, generally go through and through; you never find them lodged without they have struck a bone, which is sure to be broken and shattered in every direction, rendering amputation neces-sary. But Russia has the best soldiery in the in every direction, rendering amputation necessary. But Russia has the best soldiery in the world. They have no fear about them in this particular. They are different from the soldiery of all countries; it is impossible to get up a panic in the Russian army; they will stand with the stubbornness of a mule and be shot down by thousands, and never think of running without they are ordered to do so. They know nothing but to obey; you might order out a thousand of them against a million, and tell them to stand and fight; if they had an officer with them that would stand, I believe the last one might be shot down, and you would never see the least movement towards running.

PETERS, CRAGG, & Co.'s PIANOFORTE MAN-UFACTORY -Artists, merchants, and business men cannot spend an hour more agreeably or profitably than by taking a walk through the extensive factory of the above-named enterprising firm. After five years of unremitting labor by the proprietors, this establishment has risen to be one of the most important of our city and State. Pianos, from being an article of superfluity only available for the rich, have become almost a necessary one of furniture in the houses of the farmer and the mechanic, the professional man and the merchant. The comparative cheapness of cost at which they are now afforded has done much to bring about this result. The value of the pianos sold in the South and West during the past two years will reach a figure truly astonishing to the unitiated, certainly not less than $5,000,000. The firm of Peters, Webb, & Co., representing the oldest musichouse in the West, and comprising the individuals of the present firm of Peters, Cragg, & Co., becoming convinced that the West presented equal facilities with the East for the manufacture of pianos, determined, early in the year 1850, to make a start in that direction. As dealers in pianos, their yearly bills for Eastern instruments, brought by them to this market, were at that time between $35,000 and $40,000. The commencement of their undertaking was very modest and unpretending, and exhibited only a rented house, a half dozen workmen, and a small amount of material.

But a wonderful change has since taken place in the appearance of the establishment. Early in 1852, the proprietors purchased ninety feet of ground, at the intersection of Main and Fourteenth streets, having a depth of over two hundred feet, and immediately set about the erection of a large factory building, to which they added another in 1854, and still another during the past summer. The number of operatives has increased to nearly sixty, and the amount of capital invested in the business to over $40,000.

The establishment is now surning out one piano per day, or over three hundred per annum. The instruments finished during the present week, most of them being extra fine, and some of them intended for exhibition at the fairs of the Mechanics' Institute and the Southwestern Agricultural and Mechanical Association, are valued at nearly five thousand dollars.

The routine of the factory operations is of such a character as to insure perfection, so far as it is possible, in every portion of the mechanism. It is divided into branches, entirely distinct from each other, known to the craft as blockers, case-makers, sound-board makers, polishers, key-makers, action-makers, stringers, plate-workers, fly-finishers, finishers, regulators, and tuners. The result of that division of labor is greater exactitude and singular rapidity of construction; and a further result, cheapness in the finished instrument.

Mr. T. Cragg, who gives his personal attention to the operations of the factory, is practically acquainted with every department of the bus ness. The high repute in which his instruments are held by musicians, amateurs, and the public, throughout the South and West, is the best proof of their good qualities. The demand for them from wholesale buyers has always been beyond the ability of the factory to sup-

The pianos intended for exhibition in the Me chanics' Fair are among the most beautiful instruments we have ever seen. Too much praise cannot be given to Messrs. Peters, Cragg, & Co., for the energy and industry they have exhibited in carrying to so successful an issue an undertaking of so much importance to the manufacturing interests of our city. Let others in the different branches of trade follow their ex mple. It only needs a determined will in our people to render Louisville a manufacturing city. This once accomplished, with the natural advantages which she possesses, we may fully count on a thriving and contented population, together with advanced and still advancing commercial prosperity.

FIRST CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH. The Building Committee have prevailed upon the Rev. John P. Campbell to aid them in obtaining contributions for the completion of this edifice. It is situated at the corner of Chestnut and Floyd streets. The estimated cost of the ground and building is $10,000. The whole expense thus far has been defrayed by the con gregation and their country brethren. There remains a debt of $3,000 to be paid, and the gentlemen composing the building committee now appeal to the citizens of Louisville for aid to liquidate this debt and to complete the edifice. The Rev. Mr. Campbell will call upon our citizens for subscriptions for this purpose, and we hore he will meet with the accustomed liberality of our people. The object is good and worthy of their free and liberal donations.

The Governor has appointed A. G. Cammack, Esq., to be Quartermaster General, in place of E. H. Tole.

The Cholera in Florence. - The Florence correspond nt of the Newark Advertiser, in a letter written on the 24th ult., says that the mortality in that city by cholera was about eighty a day; and ninety-five per cent. of it was among he miserable and ill-conditioned classes. The government had made an effort to prevent the fatiguing street processions, but without success, as the clergy persisted in maintaining their efficacy.

[From the Railway Times.]

RAILWAYS ARE HIGHWAYS, AND THEREFORE CANNOT LEGALLY BE OBSTRUCTED OR REMOVED -As there is quite a number of railways in this country in rather a precari-ous condition, resulting from financial troubles, and as some doubts exist with regard to the rights of the parties, creditors, owners, or part owners, it is well enough to find out what legal steps may or may not be easily taken by them in their ownership to take up or remove any por-tion of the superstructure. We do not rememtion of the superstructure. ber of any other legal decision bearing directly upon this question than the one referred to be

Sometime in 1842 the Portsmouth and Roanoke Railway of Virginia was advertised and sold at a sheriff's sale to Mr. Francis E. Rives. After the purchase, Mr. Rives proceeded to take up and remove the superstructure. For doing this he was tried, convicted, and punished, and from some report of the trial and the decision of Judge Pearson, before whom the trial was held, we learn that the case turned upon the question, whether the railway was or is a public highway. The rule in law is that it is an indictable offence to obstruct a highway, whether by the parties who build it or by the party who afterwards purchases it. The Judge decided that the railway was a highway, and stated the principle which governed the case in these

"The right of the Legislature to condemn private property for the purposes of the road, as the land over which it runs, the wood, stone, gravel, and earth required for its construction and repair, can only be derived from the fact that the road is for the public benefit, and is to be used as a public highway.

To consider the road as mere private property is to suppose the Legislature has taken the property of certain citizens without their consent, and vested that property in certain other citizens for their individual benefit; whereas to consider it as a public highway with certain incidental private interests fully sustains the authority of the Legislature to make the condemnation.

"It is a principle of the common law which expands and adapts itself to new cases as they arise, that whenever the public has a right, and that right is invaded, the offender is liable to indictment, and in the case of a railroad constructed like the one under consideration by a joint stock company, although the company has a private interest, that interest is incidental—is s-condary, and must be enjoyed so as not to de-feat the paramount object, and one which is essential to the creation and existence of the roadthe public right. If, therefore, the company should take up the whole or a part of the road, not with a view to repair or replace it with better materials, but with a view to obstruct and hinder the public in the use of it, it would fall within the principle, and the individuals offend-ing would be liable to indictment."

The court decided that no title passed to Rivas, in his purchase at sheriff's sale, because the superstructure was not subject to execution sale. The company may sell the muterials before they are laid down, but as soon as they become a part of the road, the public right attaches, and neither the company nor a purchaser can tear up or re-move that part of a public highway. In reply to objections that a company having incurred debts cannot, by principles of law, hold property which creditors cannot reach, Judge Pearson

"The company, at the time of its creation, agreed to perform certain services to the public after its creation, it incurred liabilities to individuals-as both cannot be discharged, the right of the public must be preferred, because it is first in time and first in importance, and because the individuals who gave credit did so with a full knowledge that the company had this public duty to perform, and one claiming under a creditor has no right to complain, because he is not permitted to do that which would prevent the performance of this public duty."

According to this decision, therefore, railway iron, sleepers, or other superstructure, once having been laid upon the road bed, cannot be re-moved or taken up, no matter whether they are owned by the company or not.

[Cerrespondence of the New York Heraid.] WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.

Mr. Gadsden had received the approval of Gen Pierce to another grand design speculation, equal in importance to his first pur-The terms had been arranged between Santa Anna and the speculating diplomat, Mr. Gadsden, and all that was wanting at the time of the fight to i sure the bargain was the recommendation of the same to Congress by the President of the United States, and the favorable action of our National Legislature, which Mr. Gadsden had expressed himself as certain of obtaining. This land contract had been set-tled, so far as the powers of Santa Anna and our Minister were concerned, some five months ago, and the papers on the one hand were carefully enclosed and stowed away in the e-crutoire of the Mexican ruler, to a ait there tle of the American government. Santa Anna, in his eagerness to get away from the capital, omitted to destroy or remove the papers above alluded to, and their discovery was made almost immediately upon the initiation of the new Government. From Mr. Gadaden's despatches to the Presiden -for he has not been in communication with the Secretary of State upon the subject—it would seem that an official notification was sent to his legation, acquainting him of the discovery of the papers, and informing him that the contract was in no wise binding upon the Mexican government, and must therefore be regarded as annulled.

This prompt action on the part of the provis-ional government was forthwith replied to on the part of our minister, and an interview was solicited at as early a day as possible. If Mr. Gadsden's letter to the President is to be regarded as authority, the interview requested resulted most unfavorably to the wishes and expectations of Mr. Gadsden. The diplomat expressed sur-prise that the act of government given in faith, and accepted as such by a nation in treaty relations with the same, should not be binding on its successor. A different view of the case was taken by the new Mexican head. No contract existed; the preliminaries alone were entered upon; and as the Mexican nation had already been defrauded by Santa Anna out of every benefit derived from the twenty odd millions paid f ir a previous purchase, it was but just that it should have something to say upon the expediency of any further disposition of their lands to foreign governments To this plain demo-cratic principle our minister finds objections and makes complaint.

Did it not occur to our shrewd diplomat that the bargain entered into for the purchase of this land bore but the names of Santa Anna and his own, and that none others were responsible but Santa Anna himself for its fulfilment on the part of Mexico? His abdication rendered the arrangement en-Quincy Republican that the post-office in that city was robbed a few nights since of some $600 or $800.

Tobacco.—Tobacco is quite extensively raised in the counties of Wayne and Macomb, principally by the German population. It is cut at this time, and cured by hanging up in bunches, against the sides of houses, barns, and outhouses. The staple is of a coarse, strong kind, used principally by the Germans for smoking.

Betweit Adv.

His abdication rendered the arrangement entered into as so much useless waste paper, and the act of the provisional government, in notifying our minister upon the subject, must be regarded as an act of courtesy and of respect to the United States. It answered, at the same time, as a means to let our minister know that the designs of Santa Anna were understood, as also the ready acquiescence and the part of the U.S. Government.

Some four months since, the Herald, in a let ter from this city, made public a rumor that such negotiations were on foot, which was forthwith contradicted by the Union, as was done in the case of Reeder. The Union, however, is no longer worth referring to, as it has not the confidence of one who reads it.

LATEST NEWS.

The market reports now received by telegraph from the East are the fullest ever before given to our merchants. This is the result of the arrangement entered into a few months back by the press with the associated press of New York, and it affords us pleasure to call attention to the fact and to the truthfulness of these reports, as we are informed they may be implicitly relied on, collected as they are by responsible reporters connected with that association.

THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE-A SUGGES-TION .- The directors of the Mechanics' Institute had fixed the 25th inst. as the latest day for the reception of articles to be exhibited for premiums. We have been requested to suggest that many of our mechanics, who were engaged in preparing specimens of their manufactures for competition, have been unable to complete them in time. If the time for entries could be prolonged a few days, without injustice to others, so as to give an opportunity to those who have been belated, to finish their specimens, we have no doubt that the interest of the exhibition would be very much increased.

THE NEW DROP CURTAIN AT THE HISTRIonics.-During the rehersal of the Dramatic Association at the Histrionic Hall last night, we had an opportunity of viewing the new drop curtain from the prolific pallette of Mr. Whytal. It is beautifully and artistically designed. It represents Byron's dream. The hero sleeps in the shade of an ivy-clad ruin, amid broken columns and fallen capitals; camels are grazing near by, and proud steeds resting where fresh waters gush from an ancient fountain, while the Arab escort repose scattered around, and the majestic figure of their leader is keeping watch. It is a poetic design, admirably executed. The colors are well selected and the whole forms an elegant and tast ful drop.

The regular :neeting of Young America (Second ward) Council will be held this evening at 71 o'clock at the hall of the Lafayette Fire Company.

The members of Boone Council are requested to meet this (Wednesday) evening, the 26th inst., at 7 o'clock, at the hall of the Relief Engine House. A full attendance is requested, as business of importance will be transacted.

Mr. Downing, who has charge of the restaurant at the Mechanics' Fair, has all the delicacies of the season-oysters, game, ice cream, fruits, etc.

SADDLE, HARNESS, AND TRUNK MANUFAC-TORY .- C. Proal advertises in this evening's Bulletin that he has a large and handsome variety of all articles in his line. Mr. Proal cannot be excelled in his business as a workman and man of taste.

Wood's MINSTRELS .- This band is to perform here to-morrow evening. The agent informs us that Mr. Wood, the leader, is a brother of the celebrated Wood of Wood's Minstrels of New York. The band has never been here, and we have never heard it, but the Cincinnati papers speak well of it.

Light and Darkness; or, The Shadow of Fate. A Story of Fashionable Life. This is a new work just published by Appleton & Co., New York, to whom we are indebted for a copy. It fills over three hundred pages.

Forgeries at St. Paul.-The St. Paul Democrat of the 15th says that great excitement has been caused in that place by the discovery of forgeries to the amount of $5,000, committed by Mr. E. Howitz, book-seller, a prominent business man of St. Paul. He had also bor rowed further sums on the credit of the firm, making the whole amount of money obtained by him between $12,000 and $15,000, and with his wife had fled eastward. It was supposed to be his intention to take the first steamer for Liverpool on his arrival at New York. The gentleman whose name he forged had gone in pursuit of him.

Chickering's Parlor Grand Pianos,

BRAINARD BROTHERS.

Grand.

The unique and beautiful style of this instruments and its perfect fitness for the parier are commandations that will not apply to the ordinary Grand Fisne. For, while it combines the tone, power, estion, end appearance of a Full Grand, it has the delicate toneh of hickering; Square Pianos, ecknowledged by overy one asperior in any other, and, though of seven octave compans, is still smaller in she thin the semi-Grand Piano of 6% octaves, as it occupies but little more space than a Toctave Square Piano.

The peculiar and compact construction of the Parlor Grand, an inventien of the late lamented Jonne Chickering, is a sure guarantee of its durability. And the complete success of this new and truly beantiful instrument fully sustaine the reputation of its inventor and manufacturers.

We have sireally sold several of these instruments in this city, and, to meet the lacreased demand for them, have arranged for a constant sapply.

To these caperb Piano Fortes we invite the attention of the parlor Grand before purchasing. They are made only by Chickering & Sons, and can be hed only of onresteys in this city, all $14b$

The New Orleans Bulletin of the 19th has the following:

DESTRUCTIVE STORM ON THE LAKE AND GULF SHORE.—The late gale has proved much more destructive on the Lake and Gulf Shore, including the loss of life, than we had any idea It was one of the most disastrous storms that have occurred in this vicinity for many years. Not a town on the Gulf Shore from years. Not a town on the Gulf Shore from Bay St. Louis to Pascagoula has escaped injury The wherves have been all nearly washed away. as well as gardens and bath-houses. The loss of life is the most lamentable part of the effects produced by the hurricane, the extent of which as not yet known. At Bay St. Louis it is stated that two women lost their lives. Their names are not stated, but they were supposed to be women who were selling fruit about the wharves.

At Mississippi City a house belonging to Dr.

Gegarden, was blown down and two young men named Joseph Prentice and Robert Given, kill ed. The first of these was a clerk in the employ of Messrs. Curry & Person, of this city, and about twenty-four years old. The second was the son of Mr. George W. Givens, of this city, eighteen years old. The bodies of two fishermen were washed ashore near the same place, after the storm. Several schooners are reported to have been blown ashore or sunk, and it is quite probable we shall have to chronicle the loss of more lives. The steamer Creole had a very narrow escape and was compelled to land most of her passengers at Bay St. Lovis, barely escaped, it is said, being precipitated into the water at midnight, by a sudden and terrife gust of wind, which swept away the wharf Many persons who had built cottages along the shore and laid out gardens, have had them either entirely swept away or greatly injured.

The storm, we believe, did not extend beyond the western shore of Mobile bay. What the effects may have been on the Gulf of Mexico, we of course, have as yet no knowledge, but we fear they have been disastrous in that direc-

The New Orleans Delta contains an account of the destruction of the town of Proctorville, on Lake Borgne:

It appears that on Saturday, 11 in the fore-oon, the wind commenced blowing heavily from the northeast, and in a few hours the wa ter from the lake rose several feet on the point on which Proctorville is situated. The citizens and families spending the summer there, however, felt no serious alarm till after night fall, when the gale increasing and the waters continuing to rise, some uneasiness began to be felt; a few of the most prudent prepared themselves by removing with their bedding to the upper part of their houses.

At 9 o'clock, P. M., the gale increased, still blowing from the Northeast, and then it was that the most fearful apprehension was manifested by those familiar with such dangers. All the fishing smacks, oyster boats, &c., took relage in the bayou near Proctorville, leaving the families almost destitute of these resources. At 10 o'clock the water had risen to such a fearful hight that men, women, and children were compelled to get into the upper parts of their houses, or seek the highest points of the shell-banks for safety. At 11 o'clock the wind and water had increased to such an extent that many of the people were compelled to seek for safety on the soofs of their houses. The gale continued until 2 o'clock, P. M., from the north east, when the wind began shifting to the westwerd; between that hour and dayl ght, how-ever, the elements had done their work. When daylight broke the scene was a most desolate one—men, women, and children were seen clinging to wrecks of houses, or huddled up on patches of shell-banks, formed by the gale.

We have but time to state that there was a great loss of property. The hotel, kept by Pu-jols fils, was entirely destroyed. An extensive grocery store, owned by Orfelio Brothers, in which a large quantity of valuables were stowed. was so completely demolished that not a vestige is now to be seen. Numbers of other houses

FROM TEXAS, -The Charles Morgan arrived in New Orleans on the 18th with dates from Galveston to the 15th inst. The papers publish no further election returns:

The Houston Telegraph mentions a rumor that an expedition was being organized at Go! that to go into Mexico to recover property fel-entously abstracted from this State. The same paper has the following: It is rumored here that a difficulty recently took place at Fredericksoug, between a party of United States sol-diers and the Germans of the town, in which fifteen or twenty Germans were killed. The Austin State Times, however, entirely contra-dicts this rumor—shows it to be without the Win. Neif has been elected President of the Eastern Division of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad. The Cincinnati Commercial, in making the announcement, adds:

For some time reports have been in circula. tion in regard to the management of the affairs of this corporation, which have tended to depress the stock and induce the belief that the finances of the company were in a "miserable condition." All the gentlemen composing the new board, except one, it is almost needless to say, are residents of this city, and are of such standing in this community as to inspire the most unbounded confidence in their capacity to manage the affairs of the company, efficiently, and honestly; as regards this there can be but

ABBISON INDICTED AND ARRAIGNED AGAIN. Wm. Arrison was brought into the Common Pleas Court yesterday and arraigned upon an indictment, recently found by the grand jury, for the murder of Catherine Allison, the prosecating attorney having entered a noile in relation to the charge for the murder of Isaac Allison, for the reason of the uncertainty of the power to transfer the case from the Criminal Court. The prisoner looked well, though paler than when on his trial some months ago. Several persons were in court, but there was no indicaon of the interest which had been once manifested in the case.

A special plea was put in by Judge Key on behalf of the defendant. It set forth the facts the former trial, the conviction and sentence, the reversal of the judgment by the District Court, and raised all the questions of jurisdic-tion. It was intended also as a plea in abateweek, and a plea of autrefois convict, or "once in joopardy."

Thursday morning was fixed for hearing the argument on the preliminary questions raised stander the plea.—Cin. Com.

THE GREAT PIGEON SHOOTING MATCH, -We adverted a few days since to the great shooting match about to come off on the Queen City rac Messrs. Duncan and King. Both gentlemen are excellent shots, and there is little doubt but that a large amount of money will exchange hands upon the occasion. To the sporting men of this vicinity, the remembrance of the three trials of skill between our star shot, the late Fred. Ringgold, and Blanton Duncan, of Louis ville, will be vivid. The first match came off in Cincinnati, when Ringgold was the victor. Duncan, who, up to this time, had been classed, not only the best shot in the United States, but, as his Kentucky admirers enthusiastically pro-claimed, "in the world," challenged his opponent to a second trial, and they met at Louis-ville, the result of which was that Kentucky redeemed her laurels, and Duncan came off first best. A third and last match took place in this city, in which Duncan was again declared victor, since which time he has been considered the crack shot in the West.

We understand that the backers of Mr. King are about as sanguine of the success of the Northern champion as we of the West are of our Western shot, and the odds in New York are largely in his favor. We would, however, advise our friends of the East to "hold on," for, when they come here, they will find Northern stock at a discount, as, at the present writing, he odds in this vicinity are five to three on Duncan, and but few takers, for Western men have a faint idea that they understand wood-craft, and all that appertains thereto a little better than their Eastern neighbors, and we of Cincinnati, particularly, are well aware that he who could contend successfully with Fred. Ringgold might well challenge the world for a competitor.

We are, however, glad that this match is com g off, for we have no doubt but that the result will redound to the credit of the West, and, as the same time, we have a faint hope that it will revive a spirit in our midst breathing of those good old manly sports in which we have latterly deteriorated. Horse-racing and sylvan sports have been sadly neglected in this vicinity; the former received its death-blow from the scrub affair which came off on the 4th of July over the Queen City Race-course, and from the effect of which it has never recovered, while, in fos-tering the latter, no enterprising field-men have stepped forward to lend a helping hand. This, unquestionably the greatest pigeon-shooting match ever made in the United States, will, we hope, usher in a new era, so that, we trust, the Queen City will be enabled to take her stand upon as proud a footing as her sister cities in East or South, contesting with our transatlantic brethren the cnampionship of the turf and its various manly and health-giving concomitants .- Cin. Enq.

The Enquirer is slightly mistaken. Mr. Ringgold was beaten in all the matches shot between him and Mr. Duncan, and it was Mr. Reynolds who won a match at single birds, killing 39 to Mr D.'s 38, out of 40 shots, and after Mr. Duncan had been shooting several hours, Mr. Reynolds being perfectly fresh.

[From the Correspondence of the New York Times.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON-War Be twen Jeff Davis and Gen Scott-Something Rich to be Anticipat d.—It has leaked out here that the War Department is engaged in a sharp and bitter controversy with Gen. Scott, and that developments may be expected at the opening of Congress which will put the famous Marcy and Scott contest entirely in the background.

The affair is only remotely connected with the question of allowing the General back pay, under the act of Congress authorizing the appointment of a heutenant general—though it undoubtedly has a bearing upon it. Mr. Cushing has given the President a very elaborate opinion on the legal question of the Ganeral's title to back pay under the act, which is understood to be against it. No action on this matter however has yet hear taken. ter, however, has yet been taken.

versy referred to grows out of another matter It seems that, some months since, Gen. Scott gave General Hitchcock, who has long been an intimate personal friend, leave of absence for six months. The Secretary of War immediately wrote to General Scott, demanding his reasons for this act of favoritism to Gen Hitchcock, and at the same time countermanded the General's order granting leave of absence. The Secretary's letter was quite as sharp in its tone as it was insulting in its tenor.

General Scott replied that he had granted the eave of absence because he had the right to do it, and was convinced of its propri tywas not responsible to the Secretary of War for his action in such cases; and that he would be obliged to him if he would hereafter, in any official communications he might have occasion to address him, write in the name and by the authority of the President of the United States, as he was the only official superior whom he acknowledged. The General's letter was quite as sharp as the Secretary's.

Secretary Davis, in reply, entered into a very elaborate and detailed exposition of all the alleged breaches of order and violations of propriety committed by Gen. Scott during his whole military career. His letter is very long, and filled with the severest criticism of the General's conduct. It is intended to annihilate him completely in the confidence and respect of the American people—which may prove to be a more serious undertaking than Secretary Davis

The correspondence is already quite voluminous and is not yet closed. It will undoubtedly be communicated to Congress at the opening of the session. If not, it will be called for special resolution.

In this matter, as in all others, the Secretary of War is the autocrat of the Cabinet. He rules the President as completely as he rules his colleagues. It was he who brought the Cabinet to endorse and assume the Nebraska bill. Marcy was at first violently opposed to it—but finally caved in, and electioneered actively and personally in favor of it with members of Con-

In this affair with General Scott, Davis is equally dominant, and will undoubtedly carry the whole Cabinet with him. So you may well prepare for another crusade against this war-worn old soldier.

The New York Tribune, of Saturday,

The run upon the Atalanta Bank, Georgla, continues, and further supplies of gold have been sent to that point to meet it. This gold will eventually come back here, but meantime our bank reserves show a loss of three-quarters of a million of dollars from this cause.

Leslie's Gazette of Fashions for Sept'r. I ESLIE'S Gazette for September came to hand and is for F. A. CRUMP, 84 Pourthet., near Market.

We copied a paragraph yesterday from the New York , ournal of Commerce which noted the loss of a box of $25,000 gold coin sent to the New York sub-treasury from the Dubuque land office. It now appears there were two boxes lost, each containing $25,000. They were in charge of the American Express Company. The Tribune says:

Like amounts in similar packages have been safely received from the same place through the same company almost every week for some time past, but on opening the boxes which came yes terday a most singular transmutation was found to have been eff-cted-instead of rolls of bright coin the boxes contained only layers of bullets, alternated with sheet lead. This fraud was communicated to the American Express Company, and the directors of the Western section start d yesterday from Buffalo in pursuit of the

Last night, Mr. Butterfield left this city on the same errand, accompanied by two of the keenest officers in the detective service. As yet the whole affair is shrouded in mystery; but probably before many days the defrauders will be discovered. The boxes are made of pitch pine, devetailed together, and secured by three iron bands, screwed around each box. In addition, the heads of the screws are sealed over with wax, and impressed with the official seal. So strongly guarded, and being almost constantly in sight of the agent of the company, it seems next to impossible that they could have been opened and their contents exchanged. The lead weighed 175 pounds, and within 15 pounds of what the gold would weigh. The boxes are, externally, exact counterfeits of those which have heretofore been received from the land office at Dubuque, and, on comparison, would puzzle the nicest observer to detect any differ-

THE BALLOON ASCENSION YESTERDAY — Monsieur and Madame Godard, accompanied by Mr. James C. Bellman, of the Gazette, made a balloon ascension yesterday afternoon from the City Lot, on the corner of Ninth and Plum steets. On a small bar of wood, suspended by two parallel ropes, and swinging about twenty feet beneath the car, was seated Mons. Godard, who, as the balloon arose, performed a number of acrobatic feats with exceeding dexterity, and evinced a daring terrific to witness.

voyageurs in the car waved the flag of the Union and of France as they ascended.

We learn from Mr. John Keenan, Mail gent on the C. H. & D. Railroad, that the balloon was seen passing over Hamilton at 1 past 8 o'clock, and was gradually descending. From the course it was taking, it would probably land near Eaton in Preble county. Cin. Commercial.
